BAŠĆANSKA PLOČA

KRALJA ZVONIMIRA

Baška tablet is one of the first monuments containing an inscription in the Croatian recension of the Church Slavonic language, dating from c. 1100.

Throughout Croatia's history, courageous and strong women have played an integral role in inspiring action, preserving culture, religion and heritage and even bravely protecting our borders – just as they do today. In creating the award, our goal was to honor the heritage that binds us and to recognize the strength and tenacity of our Croatian Women of Influence.

The Croatian word for woman is žena. The symbol for the first letter “ž” in the ancient and original Croatian Glagolitic alphabet that played an important role in Croatian history is in fact the symbol that shapes the form of the award. It was made in Canada of aluminium and stone.

 The Glagolitic alphabet (known as Glagolitsa) is the oldest known Slavic alphabet. It was created in the 9th century by Saint Cyril, a Byzantine monk from Thessaloniki. He and his brother, Saint Methodius, were sent by the Byzantine Emperor Michael III in 863 to Great Moravia to spread Christianity among the Slavs in the area. The brothers decided to translate liturgical books into the Old Slavic language that was understandable to the general population, but as the words of that language could not be easily written by using either the Greek or Latin alphabets, Cyril decided to invent a new script, Glagolitic, which he based on the language of the Macedonian Slavs from the Thessaloniki region.

Honoring the Past.
Celebrating the Present.
Advancing into the Future.

After the deaths of Cyril and Methodius, the Glagolitic alphabet ceased to be used in Moravia, but their students continued to propagate it in the west and south. The Glagolitic alphabet was preserved only by the Croats, using it from the 12th to the 20th century, mostly in liturgy.

The name was not coined until many centuries after its creation, and comes from the Old Church Slavonic glagol "utterance" (also the origin of the Slavic name for the letter G). The verb glagoliti means "to speak". It has been conjectured that the name glagolitsa developed in Croatia around the 14th century and was derived from the word glagolity, applied to adherents of the liturgy in Slavonic.

Croats using the Glagolitic alphabet were the only nation in Europe who was given a special permission by Pope Innocent IV (in 1248) to use their own language and this script in liturgy. More precisely, this permission had formally been given to the bishop Philip of Senj. However, special care accorded by the Vatican to the Glagolitic liturgy in subsequent centuries (even by publishing several Glagolitic missals in Rome), shows that this privilege applied to all Croatian lands using the Glagolitic liturgy, mostly along the coast. As is well known, the Latin had been the privileged language in religious ceremonies in the Catholic Church until the 2nd Vatican Synod held in 1962-1965, when it was decided to allow vernacular national languages to be used in the Catholic liturgy instead of Latin. It is interesting that even today the Glagolitic liturgy is used in some Croatian churches.

HONORARY FRIEND OF CROATIA

Honorary Friend of Croatia,
Croatian Women of Influence
Israel/USA

Dr Esther Gitman is a Jewish American historian who is an expert on Jewish history in the former Yugoslavia specifically focusing on the Independent State of Croatia. She is the author of When Courage Prevailed: The Rescue and Survival of Jews in the Independent State of Croatia 1941–1945 (Paragon House, 2011, USA). The book examines the rescue and survival of Jews in the Independent State of Croatia during World War II and the role of then Archbishop of Zagreb, now Blessed Alojzije Stepinac, during that time. The book was made into a documentary film, by the same name authored by Jadranka Jurško-Kero, which was released in June 2011 and premiered in Croatia.

“Stepinac is a holy man who saved many Jews”

Dr. Esther Gitman

In 1999 Dr. Gitman embarked upon scientific research for her PhD dissertation dedicating her work exclusively to the courageous Croatians who saved Jews in the Independent State of Croatia and to Blessed Stepinac. Gitman had not heard about Blessed Stepinac and his contributions to saving the Jews until her dissertation work took her to the Croatian national archives in Zagreb where she uncovered numerous mislaid boxes that contained tens of thousands of unprocessed documents that pointed to his brave and daring activities during the war. Her work has attracted significant Croatian and world-wide attention.

Dr. Gitman was born to a Jewish family in Sarajevo from which she fled with her mother during 1941. After living in Israel and Montreal, Quebec, Canada she and her husband have lived in New York, USA since 1972.

Sixty one years after fleeing Sarajevo, Dr. Gitman came to Zagreb in 2002 as an American research scientist where, with a Fulbright Scholarship in hand, she spent a year studying the rescue of Jews out of the Independent State of Croatia. Such research had previously been politically unsuitable or had been deemed to be 'forbidden' or 'uninteresting' to historians of that era.

Through the lens of scientific research, proof and arguments, Gitman highlights the courageous and honourable Croatians who placed their own lives at risk in order to help the Jews of the World War II escape unspeakable horrors and outright oppose the laws of the day.

Dr. Gitman's enduring message is that there is always hope to conquer evil if there are good and decisive people who love a human being as a human being and not for his or her racial or religious belonging.
